Spanish 215
Professor: Dr. Ana Moraña
Summer 2014 (dates to be announced)

Spanish 215. Spanish For Heritage and Native Speakers (Online course)Course Description:

Spanish 215 is a communicative course, which provides exercises and activities that will enable heritage and native speakers to learn the foundations of Spanish as a language that they speak in their home and/or community, as their first language (while they have also an important level of fluency in English). This course is not designed for SFL (Spanish as a Foreign Language) students so they should enroll in another course designed for their needs. We will study Spanish grammar and linguistic structures, while reading and speaking in Spanish and practicing writing and differentiating between different levels of Spanish. We will also study different texts, movies and culture of the Spanish-speaking world. This course will be offered online. PREQUISITE: ONLY FOR NATIVE AND/OR HERITAGE SPEAKERS (Personal and phone interviews are mandatory as the established procedure for enrolling in the course).

CONTACT INFORMATION:
Dr. Ana Moraña anmora@ship.edu
Ms. Janine Olah # 1635

Course Goals:

1) The students will demonstrate communicative competence at the Intermediate-Mid level minimum in listening, speaking, reading and writing a language that is part of their cultural background and everyday life.
2) The students will demonstrate an ability to express and comprehend the different levels of Spanish; they will distinguish formal, informal, professional, familiar, etc. Spanish in order to use it appropriately.
3) The students will demonstrate the comprehension of different aspects of the Hispanic cultures.
4) The students will be able to properly use grammatical structures in their oral and written production.