

LEADERSHIP

CITIZENSHIP

Many academic programs at Ship have service-learning opportunities where you can take what you have learned in the classroom and apply it in the community. Accounting majors assist local lowincome families with tax preparation. Teacher education students work with at-risk children in the public schools. English students help with literacy programs. With every project, you see how you can make a difference.

Teamwork, decision making, motivating, and inspiring others are some of the skills you develop when you step into positions of influence on projects, teams and in organizations. Such skills are important to employers...and in life.

SCHOLARSHIP

At Ship, students can put their learning into practice by participating in research projects with faculty. Most universities reserve this privilege for graduate students. As a result, Ship students have an edge both at graduate school and in the job market.

We want you—and all our students— to leave Ship with a love of learning that will continue throughout your lifetime. Our goal is to equip you with the degree, knowledge, experiences, and skills to be an active community participant.

In every degree program, you'll find an emphasis on practical applications, individual attention, and exposure to the latest ideas and methods. You will work closely with an academic advisor in choosing just the right class to fit your individual interests and goals.

INTERNSHIP

At Ship, it's not just what happens in the classroom. We're committed to helping you develop your utmost intellectual, personal, and social capabilities by providing a supportive environment with a myriad of out-of-class opportunities. Study abroad, service-learning projects, and presentations at national conferences are just a few of our Ship experiences.

Many top students choose to enter the Honors Program, which provides innovative Honors classes and enriching co-curricular experiences.

Suite Living BEGINNING SPRING 2013

From the moment you step on campus, you immediately feel you're among family. It's a home away from home where you can relax with friends, be valued for who you are, and be encouraged, supported, and challenged to achieve your ambitions.

Some of the strongest friendships in your life will be forged during your Ship years. You'll find people who share common interests both academic and social.
