John L. Grove
College of Business
2012–13 Annual Report

“A Tradition of Excellence”
For more than forty years, the John L. Grove College of Business has focused on a tradition of excellence. These words capture the dedication of our students, faculty, and staff and embody the mission of our college—to provide a quality, high value, comprehensive education that prepares students to excel as global leaders. We provide exceptional undergraduate and graduate programs that are taught by highly qualified faculty in small classroom settings, allowing students to gain countless academic and practical experiences.

Shippensburg has prepared generations of students in business education for nearly eighty years. The Grove College of Business has awarded degrees for more than forty years and has proudly held the prestigious international accreditation by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) for more than thirty years.

Grove graduates continue to gain successful employment, despite the economic downturn, thanks to numerous opportunities for practical experience in the College of Business. Students gain real-world experience through internships that successfully place them in positions based on their academic background and interests. More than 60 percent of business students have completed at least one internship, and 80 percent have had additional work experience. Nineteen different business organizations offer students on-campus leadership opportunities. Strong academic programs, application of business theories, student/faculty research opportunities, and involvement outside the classroom also have helped more than 87 percent of business alumni to find full-time employment in their major or related field within six months of graduation.

Grove College of Business boasts more than 15,000 successful alumni across the globe. I believe their success comes from the excellent education they receive from our faculty. Parents also validate student success, because they continue to send their sons and daughters to Ship and believe in our mission to prepare global leaders. Employers continue to seek our graduates, because they are well prepared, ethical, and professional.

We are fortunate to be ranked among the top AACSB-accredited undergraduate business programs by the 2013 US News & World Report. Our graduate program also is ranked by Princeton Review as one of the top 296 AACSB accredited graduate programs. Since 2011, enrollment in the Professional, Emerging Leaders, and Online MBA programs has nearly doubled from 117 students to 225 students in 2013.

This year’s annual report covers the success of the Investment Management Program (IMP) in the Dayton University RISE (Redefining Investment Strategy Education) Forum, the regional accomplishments of Shippensburg’s Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) chapter, and the achievements of the Entrepreneurship Action US (Enactus) Club. Also in the report, faculty received twelve achievement awards for their accomplishments in teaching, research, and service, made possible through generous donations.

This year’s success and progress are due to the efforts and dedication of many excellent people in the Grove College of Business. I hope you are as proud of our students, faculty, alumni, and supporters featured in this annual report as I am.

Best Regards,

John G. Koont, Dean
John L. Grove College of Business
The John L. Grove College of Business, established in 1971, is one of the premier business schools in the Mid-Atlantic Region. Since 1981, our college has held the most prestigious international accreditation by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) International. We offer a Master of Business Administration (MBA) and a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (BSBA), as well as numerous certificate programs. Our business programs are relevant and challenging. We ask corporate executives, as members of the Grove College of Business Advisory Board and Councils, to help us plan programs that offer the output that executives want and expect in their employees.

In the 2012-13 academic year, there were 216 MBA students enrolled in our four locations—Shippensburg, Harrisburg, York, and East Stroudsburg—and 1,352 undergraduate students enrolled within our three academic departments: Accounting, Management Information Systems, and Information Technology for Business Education; Finance and Supply Chain Management; and Management and Marketing.

Our BSBA degree program features a strong common business core, a concentration in a specific major, and a balanced liberal arts component. This business core covers subjects from all functional areas of business and gives a broad foundation of business knowledge. It enables students to change business majors within the first two years without a loss of credits and provides career flexibility upon graduation.

The university participates in two major employment consortia each year and the college hosts the Career Expo where students can talk to representatives from various businesses about career opportunities. Students have an opportunity to gain firsthand job experience by completing a business internship. Our internships give students a blend of academic learning with real-world experience, which increases job opportunities upon graduation. Internships are available in a variety of businesses here in south-central Pennsylvania, metropolitan areas like Philadelphia and Baltimore, as well as nationally and internationally.

The goal of our Grove College of Business faculty is to provide students with a knowledge base and skills for a lifetime of learning in a professional career of their choice. The faculty, over 95 percent of whom hold a doctorate in their field of instruction, pride themselves in offering a highly personalized learning environment. Equally important, the educational experience of our students is guaranteed to be state of the art because our faculty members continue their professional growth through research and their work as consultants. In addition, our modern classroom building, Grove Hall, was designed with a twenty-first century education in mind. Our small classes enable students to interact on a one-on-one basis, and this allows our faculty to help students develop strong communication, interpersonal, and teamwork skills that are vitally important in today’s business world.

The John L. Grove College of Business at Shippensburg University provides a high-quality and high-value comprehensive educational experience that prepares students to excel as principled leaders in today’s global business community.

Mission Statement
Robert E. “Bucky” Ward ’77 of Lehigh Valley feels good belonging to a team. As director of operations at Computer Aid, Ward describes his job as coaching several hundred company associates. “My job is really about developing people and helping them perform at their highest levels,” he said.

A business education major at Shippensburg, Ward found himself drawn back to the John L. Grove College of Business as an advisor in 1986. “From the moment I reconnected with professors and staff, I knew it was something I wanted to do.”

Computer Aid outsources technology for companies that need it, but don’t necessarily have the in-house experience and equipment. Although his schedule is frequently booked, Ward enjoys the diversity each day brings.

As a Grove College of Business board member, Ward finds it rewarding to work with the university community. “The professors truly care about the success and well being of their students.” He is often invited to speak on campus and receives e-mails from students seeking advice.

Ward has gained many ideas from his work at Ship. “I’ll proudly admit that I have included many of the university’s ideas and programs with my staff as well. It’s a two-way street.”

The two-way street includes fellow Ship graduates. “We are always looking for bright and assertive students and recent graduates. Over the years, we’ve been able to work with the Grove College of Business to attract and hire some outstanding Shippensburg graduates.” The rewards exceed above and beyond for Ward, who simply hopes to benefit the college that has done so much for him.

Ward also has established the Robert E. “Bucky” Ward Athletic Scholarship for a Parkland High School student enrolled in the Grove College of Business who also participates in one of Ship’s intercollegiate athletic programs.

is the chief financial officer of Exelon Generation, which is the competitive energy subsidiary of Exelon Corporation (EXC). Wright earned a BSBA in accounting from Shippensburg in 1988. He earned his Maryland CPA license and an MBA from Mount Saint Mary’s University. Wright is responsible for all financial aspects of Exelon’s competitive businesses. His prior roles include senior vice president, corporate finance, for Exelon Corporation and chief accounting officer of Constellation Energy Group. He previously worked at Allegheny Energy, Inc., Citibank, and AVEMCO Corporation. He is a board member for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Museum in Baltimore, Maryland.

Ellsesser Joins Finance Council

Justin Ellsesser ’11 is manager of trading and operations at Silver Leaf Partners, an institutional broker dealer serving hedge funds and mutual funds worldwide. He graduated from Shippensburg in 2011 with a BSBA in finance and a minor in political science. As a student, he was a member of the Investment Club and served as president of the Investment Management Principles class. Since graduation, he served as a Congressional intern before taking a position as a trading assistant at Silver Leaf Partners. In his two years at the firm, he has risen to become manager of the trading area, which is responsible for running the day-to-day operations of the brokerage business. Ellsesser has attended graduate-level classes at George Washington University and is a member of the Washington, D.C., CFA Society under their Candidate Membership Program.
Spotlight on Retired Faculty:
Dr. Jonathan Kohn

As a professor in the John L. Grove College of Business for more than thirty-five years, Dr. Jonathan Kohn has had the opportunity to mentor everyone in his department.

“When I came, no one mentored me. I realized that mentoring faculty was very important—whether discussing promotion and tenure, pedagogical issues, or attitudes towards our students.”

Kohn, who specializes in logistics, has collaborated with faculty and students on a number of projects over the last three decades. He developed new curriculum, created new courses, and helped reorganize his department into Supply Chain Management, which has grown tremendously.

He also recognized the need for faculty evaluation by students. Working jointly with Dr. Louise Hatfield more than a decade ago, they developed and implemented the current student evaluation form used to assess faculty.

The makeup of the student body has changed over the years, Kohn said. As technology advanced, he adapted his teaching style to students’ needs and interests. “I learned to use computers as educational tools rather than just computational devices. This approach helped students who felt uncomfortable in a mathematical environment deal with the challenges.”

Prior to retiring, Kohn designed an online graduate certificate program in Supply Chain Management that was recently approved. The John L. Grove College of Business is now one of only four schools in the state to offer this certificate.

Reflecting on his career, Kohn said Shippensburg was a wonderful place to work that afforded him opportunities to make significant contributions. “I found it very stimulating to work in an academic environment with supportive, like-minded people. I especially enjoyed meeting people from other colleges and disciplines.”

In retirement, he plans to split his time between Pennsylvania and Boulder, Colorado, where his children and grandchildren live, as well as travel overseas and hike with his wife.

Exchange in LaRochelle

Dr. David Evans, executive director of international relations (left), of LaRochelle, France, came to visit Dean Kooti last fall to discuss collaborations at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Shippensburg University’s current partnership there provides an exchange program for our students.

Company of the Year
Volvo CE • Shippensburg

The John L. Grove College of Business faculty honored Volvo Construction Equipment (CE) in Shippensburg as the 2013 Company of the Year. Volvo CE has made a significant impact in the region because of the size of its economic footprint, its environmental consciousness when designing and implementing their operations, and its charitable contributions to the community.

In March, Conrad Jackson, senior process analyst for Volvo CE, accepted the award and made a presentation to faculty and students highlighting Volvo’s strategies for maintaining growth in their operations. Jackson’s well-received presentation provided an insightful model for students about how to maximize the benefits from their business internships.
Beta Gamma Sigma is an international business honors society that represents the top 10 percent of students in AACSB-accredited colleges and universities. This year, the Shippensburg chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma sent two student representatives, Derek Shade and Erin Wolfe, to the Winter 2013 Student Leadership Forum in Jacksonville, Florida.

To be considered for membership, students must attend a university or college accredited by AACSB International, must be a senior in the top 10 percent of their class with a minimum 3.4 cumulative GPA; or a junior ranking in the top 7 percent of their class with a minimum 3.5 GPA. MBA students must maintain a minimum 3.6 GPA. The students found this unique four-day event was more than an average business conference. The hands-on experience gave students an opportunity to focus on developing their personal leadership styles through a variety of interactive workshops, team building exercises, professional speakers, and networking activities. Participants also strengthened their communication skills through creative group activities and learned how to incorporate their individual personalities into unique and successful leadership styles. One of the most rewarding aspects of the conference was the opportunity to meet and interact with peers from around the world.

On April 26, 2013, Beta Gamma Sigma held its annual induction ceremony and College of Business Awards Banquet. This year, thirty-one members were inducted in the society, and numerous faculty members were honored for their contributions in their fields of study.

The Grove College of Business lost two former faculty members, Dr. Robert Ackelsberg, 85, professor of management, died July 27, 2012, and Dr. Myron Gable, 84, professor of marketing and former chair of the Management and Marketing Department, died August 9, 2012.

Ackelsberg came to Shippensburg with twenty years experience as an engineer with the desire to earn his PhD and teach. “The industry experience that Bob brought to the classroom was invaluable, and that experience, combined with his excellent teaching skills and ability to connect with his students, made Bob one of the most popular professors in the School of Business at the time,” said Tony Winter, associate dean of the college.

Born in New York City, he was known as an “adventurous soul” by his family. He specialized in international studies, a passion he shared with his students, and traveled extensively. According to Dr. Susan Stone, professor of management and marketing, Ackelsberg brought professionalism and experience into the classroom. “The only thing that mattered to him was the students,” she said.

Ackelsberg’s personable, easy-going attitude and great sense of humor made him one of the college’s most loved professors, Winter said. “He had a very positive impact while at Ship, and one that lasted many years beyond, through the professional achievements of his students.”

Gable was described as dynamic, outgoing, engaging, and energetic—all traits that brought out the best in the people around him, Winter said. He took the time to get to know people and what they thought or felt about issues in the department, Stone added.

“His commitment to his profession, the College of Business, and to the university had a lasting impact both inside and outside of the classroom,” Winter said.

“Both of these men put the College of Business on the map,” Stone said.

MBA Program Review

Ship’s MBA Program has experienced continued growth and success. Since launching two new ways to earn an MBA and establishing progressive enrollment of students at two new satellite locations, the program is moving forward.

In the fall of 2012, both the Ship MBA Emerging Leaders Cohort and the Ship MBA Online program provided more options to students acquiring their MBA.

During its first year in fall 2012, twenty-two students joined the Ship Emerging Leaders Cohort. The cohort is a one-year accelerated MBA program specifically designed for recent college graduates. It offers day classes on Wednesdays in Shippensburg and at the Dixon University Center. It also carries a business practicum (graduate internship) option. The premise is to allow our students to earn the MBA in one year and gain real-world experience simultaneously. The second cohort began in 2013.

The MBA online program also successfully launched in fall 2012, providing the same MBA professional program experience in an online format. The program currently has more than fifty students enrolled and will likely continue to grow.

Enrollment increased in the original MBA professional program at our main campus and at the Dixon University Center. Two newer locations in York and East Stroudsburg also offer the quality, AACSB-accredited MBA program to students outside of the south-central Pennsylvania region.

Overall, the MBA program has grown 140 percent in the past year and continues to provide quality, convenience, and value to our MBA students.

Accounting Club Dinner

In March, the Accounting Club and the university chapter of the National Association of Black Accountants (NABA), Inc., hosted their nineteenth annual Etiquette Dinner, featuring speakers Lynne and John Breil of The Professional Edge.

The Breils covered everything from using the overwhelming arsenal of silverware at a professional dinner to where your napkin should be placed when the meal is done. There was an opportunity to eat foods that should be avoided in a professional setting, such as French onion soup or spaghetti. Students also learned how a dining experience may change when traveling abroad.

The evening also presented a chance for students to network with the multiple public accounting firms in attendance.

Special thanks to: PwC; ParenteBeard, LLC; SF & Company; Reinsel Kuntz Lesher; Smith Elliott Kearns & Company, LLC; Squire Lemin + Company, LLP; Herbein+Company, Inc.; Boyer & Ritter; Ernst & Young, LLP; Rager, Lehman & Houck; Rotz & Stonesifer; McKonly & Asbury, LLP; and Accounting Club Advisors Dr. Mary Myers and Dr. Scott Cairns.
More than 400 students interacted with nearly one hundred organizations at the John L. Grove 2012 Career Expo, which was held in the Ceddia Union Building in September. Students from all three colleges had the opportunity to network with prospective employers, discuss full- and part-time positions, consider internship opportunities, and learn about a variety of careers.

Many employer representatives indicated that this was one of the best campus career fairs they attended, and they were impressed with the organization, enthusiasm, and student support.

This year’s Career Expo, which was the biggest in more than two decades, was possible due to the efforts of several staff and students from the Grove College of Business. Special thanks to all students representing our business professional organizations who volunteered to make the 2012 Career Expo a success.
Accounting Club

During the fall semester, students networked with eighteen different accounting firms during the Career Expo, through the Accounting Club, or by meeting special speakers. The club compiled members’ resumes in a book for prospective employers. As a result, many students received internships or full-time employment offers.

Students learned how to properly conduct themselves during a business meal at the nineteenth annual Etiquette Dinner. Numerous accounting firms were present to network with students, alumni, teachers, and the deans.

The Accounting Club invites accounting firms to speak to members on current accounting topics on a bi-weekly basis. During the 2012-13 academic year, the following firms participated: Boyer & Ritter, PwC, Arthur Bell, Smith Elliot Kearns & Company, LLC, Reinsel Kunzt Lesher, SF & Company, ParenteBeard, Becker, Kern and Company, PC, McKonly and Asbury, LLP, and Squire Lemkin + Company, LLP.

The 2012-13 officers were Michael Pavusik, president; Ryan Schweikert, vice president; Kayla Arigo, treasurer; Zach Artz, membership director; Ashley Elder, secretary; and Nicholas Spinelle, webmaster. The 2013-14 officers were Zachary Artz, president; Kenny McHugh, vice president; Tyler Lucchese, treasurer; Justin Petermen, membership director; Jessica Hugher, secretary; and Josue Santoyo, webmaster.

E-BOSS:

E-BOSS assisted the Entrepreneurship Leadership Center in marketing the PASSHE Business Plan competition and participated in the competition. During the competition, E-BOSS held group discussions about their business plan ideas and members had the opportunity to work together to build and improve upon each other’s passions.

E-BOSS met with Dr. Shelley Morrisette, the head entrepreneurship professor, and with Mike Unruh of the Small Business Development Center to talk about entrepreneurship and the business they started.

Last November, E-BOSS hosted the Dream Share Project with the Entrepreneurship Leadership Center. During the Dream Share Project, successful entrepreneurs and recent graduate students, Chip Hiden and Alexis Irvin, showed a documentary they created about quitting the corporate jobs they disliked to take a cross-country road trip and interview people that have successfully chased their dream job. Hiden and Irvin then held a workshop focused on following your dream, setting goals, and creating a plan to make it come true. This inspirational event left attendees motivated and better prepared to follow their dreams.

E-BOSS also played a big role in marketing for the event on campus. While the target was to register about forty attendees, the group’s hard work preceding the event led to one hundred registered attendees who left extremely positive feedback.

Enactus

The Shippensburg University Enactus team (formerly Students in Free Enterprise or SIFE) returned to Shippensburg as champions in the Baltimore 2013 Enactus Regional Competition in March. The event was one of ten Enactus USA Regional Competitions held nationwide.

The presentation team included Jennifer Fourhman (substituting for Ryley Behm), Nicholas March, Amber Sherrock, and Brittany Woodruff. Also in attendance were Brittany Lapp and Tracy Brenner. After presenting a report of their yearlong community outreach projects to a panel of business leaders, the team was named a SIFE USA Regional Champion in the overall competition. They then advanced to the national competition at the Enactus USA Exposition in May in Kansas City, Missouri.

“This program is excellent for Ship students, since it provides them the opportunity to put theories to work and apply written and oral communication skills, while also assisting their community and helping to make the world a better place,” said Dean Kooti.

“The team accomplished five projects serving communities across the globe and their performance in Baltimore was exceptional. I am very proud of them and their accomplishments during the year. I am also very grateful for the support given to our students by the administration, friends, alumni, and business leaders.”

Enactus is an international nonprofit organization active on more than 1,600 university campuses and in more than thirty-eight countries. Enactus teams create economic opportunities in their communities by organizing outreach projects that meet the Enactus criteria. Their projects are judged on creativity, innovation, and effectiveness.

FMA

The Financial Management Association (FMA) had an outstanding year under the leadership of President Evan Miller and Vice President Nicholas Shearer. Accomplishments for the 2012-13 academic year include bringing in speakers from Edwards Jones Investments, Northwestern Mutual, Deloitte, and Harrisburg Regional Chamber of Commerce & CREDC. Each spoke about the different and exciting careers at their respective firms. FMA’s goal was to network with business students and professionals brought in to speak. Each professional guest offered summer internships and full-time employment to Ship students.

During the fall semester, more than one hundred students attended the annual Business Networking Social and Etiquette Dinner sponsored by Northwestern Mutual Financial. This event delivered a professional atmosphere to teach etiquette skills while dining and networking. Lee Fortenberry, Northwestern Agency director and Shippensburg University adjunct professor, expressed how important proper etiquette is from a business professional situation to a casual night out. Lynne Breil, president of the Professional Edge Company, along with her husband John, took the group through the trials of a hard-to-eat dinner and explained proper etiquette throughout the meal.

The FMA continues to grow and seeks to become nationally recognized in future years.

The 2013-14 leadership is: Nathan Sorresso, president; Chelsie Madison, vice president;
Monique Clemons, secretary; Shane Frank, vice president of marketing; and Jessica Gebauer, treasurer.

Investment Club

Last April, eight members of the Investment Club went to New York City to the Quinnipiac Game Forum. Michael Uehlein, Sean Minford, Tyler Minford, Christian Jefferies, Chuck Sabol, Tyler Heintz, Tyler Robertson, and Bobby Kohl had the opportunity to attend and network with students from more than one hundred universities, forty-two states, and forty-three countries. More than 120 speakers offered their opinions on the outlook of the stock market and where opportunities will be in the future.

The first day included Q&A sessions with five different professional fund managers or economists. Notable professionals included Larry V. Adam, the chief investment strategist at Deutsche Bank; Richard Bernstein, CEO of Richard Bernstein Advisors; Bob Doll, chief equity strategist at Nuveen Asset Management; and Dr. John E. Silva, managing director and chief economist at Wells Fargo Securities. They provided an insightful view of the United States and global economies. Additionally, attendees had their questions answered by capitalists and experts in the financial sector. The next day, two high-profile speakers on Wall Street, David Darst and Joe Terranova, spoke about asset allocation.

David Darst, the chief investment strategist at Morgan Stanley, explained his ways to hedge against risk and strategies in asset allocation of his fund. Joe Terranova, a contributor to CNBC, discussed opportunities in the market and provided a memorable video of an interview with author Milton Friedman explaining greed. During the final day, attendees were split into small group learning sessions that focused on topics such as hedge funds, financial planning, and high-frequency trading. Overall, the Quinnipiac gave attendees practical and enlightening knowledge into the world of Wall Street.

NABA

Last October, three members of the Ship chapter of the National Association of Black Accountants, Inc. (NABA, Inc.) attended the Eastern Region Student Conference in Bethesda, Maryland. Attendees included Josue Santoyo, an accounting major from New Oxford, Idris Coleman, a human resource major from Downingtown, and Phil Cobb, an accounting major from Philadelphia.

The conference allowed students to network with other students and companies from Maine to Virginia in a unique venue. Each session included information such as selling a personal brand, preparing for further accounting and accounting related certifications, and business attire awareness. A career fair gave students an opportunity to use their business savvy to build relationships with corporate partners in an effort to secure an internship or full-time position. Sponsors included, but were not limited to, the Big 4 accounting firms (Ernst & Young, LLP, Deloitte, KPMG, and PwC) and smaller accounting firms.

Coleman, Cobb, and Santoyo agreed that the trip was phenomenal. Cobb noted that “the conference is more than just a trip, it’s a much needed experience. Once you go, you see what’s out there as far opportunities and competition. We know, but we have to get others to see the true value in the conference.”

The Shippensburg chapter also earned a monetary prize for having the best and only perfect attendance in sessions provided by the sponsors.

Since returning from the conference, the NABA, Inc. leadership has planned a series of guest speakers and programs that will benefit all business students, regardless of their ethnicity or major. Although NABA, Inc. was formed in 1969 to enhance opportunities for minorities in the accounting, finance, and business-related professions, the group has become more diverse in recent years. In line with an increasingly global business environment, the number of international students in NABA, Inc. has grown. First and foremost, the organization is committed to academic and professional excellence among its members.

The Shippensburg chapter meets the first and third Tuesdays at 4:30pm. If you are interested in participating, e-mail Phil Cobb at pc2681@ship.edu or the group’s advisor, Dr. Allison Watts, at ad watts@ship.edu.

PBL-FBLA

The 2012-13 school year was successful for Phi Beta Lambda—Future Business Leaders of America (PBL-FBLA). The organization made an impact on the community and performed well in its state competition. The group’s annual goals included completing many community service projects and increasing participation in the state competition.

The group focused on Ronald McDonald House Charities, collecting more than four gallons of soda tabs across campus for a great cause. Members also participated in Shippensburg’s first Mini-THON, which benefits pediatric cancer patients, and helped with the Boys and Girls Club in Chambersburg.

During the state competition, five of fifteen members placed within the top three in their respected fields.

Shippensburg’s PBL-FBLA hopes to continue growing and furthering its impact on the community and campus life.
As a senior management major, Cheryl Strenger has taken full advantage of all the opportunities the College of Business offers. During her first year at Shippensburg, she took part in, and successfully graduated from, the Emerging Leaders Institute. She became a general member on the Activities Programing Board and participated in the women’s chorale.

Strenger joined the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) Club and was elected to serve as the public relations chair for the 2011-12 and 2012-13 academic years. In this role, she managed and directed fundraisers, arranged for guest speakers to attend chapter meetings, and has participated in many Grove College of Business socials. Additionally, she was a part of the winning SHRM team, which represented Shippensburg in the 2013 Northeast Annual Case Competition. Strenger is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma and received the 2013 APSCUF–SU student award in management.

Strenger also contributed to the Management and Marketing Department by working as the department’s undergraduate research assistant.

She is particularly proud of the research she and a fellow student completed for the Grove College of Business in her implementation course. They worked with students, faculty, and staff to develop strategies to yield higher application rates for the Grove College of Business. The process taught her what makes the university so special and what peers believed was most important for prospective students to know about the Grove College of Business and university. As a result of their research, they presented three strategies to the Grove College of Business Advisory Board that will benefit the university and current and prospective students.

Strenger applied her education and skills to acquire and successfully complete a human resources internship with NMS Labs during her junior and senior year. She believes the knowledge she gained from her internship allowed her to excel in the classroom and better understand her coursework. She said her experience will provide her with the knowledge she needs to be successful in her career.

Strenger will attend graduate school in the fall of 2013 to complete her master’s in business administration and is continuing to work at NMS Labs. Within the next two years, she plans to complete her master’s degree and hopes to find a career in human resources near her hometown of Chalfont.

During his four years as a supply chain management and management information systems dual major, Seth Wiles has been involved in both curricular and extracurricular activities. He’s been active in the Supply Chain Management Professionals Club as vice president his junior year and as president his senior year. He also served on the Dean’s Student Advisory Board, the Grove College of Business Advisory Board, and the Supply Chain/Logistics Advisory Board, and he regularly participated in university Open House Events to talk with prospective students about the John L. Grove College of Business.

Wiles was very involved in student life as vice president and later president of Lackhove Hall. During this time he worked to create a strong community through events and volunteer activities. For his service, he was inducted in the National Residence Hall Honorary Association. He also was an active participant in SUTV and WSYC Radio.

While in college, Wiles worked as a safety intern at International Waxes Inc. in Smethport, an assistant systems engineer intern at American Refining Group in Bradford, and a materials intern at Volvo CE in Shippensburg.

In his free time, he enjoys spending time with family and friends, lifting weights, running, kayaking, pottery, traveling, movies, rock climbing, and hiking. After graduation, he will work in global procurement and supply chain as a new product development buyer with the JLG Industries division of Oshkosh Corporation.
I decided to work as English tutors to a family during our semester. This turned out to be such a good decision, because I had a blast. The kids were fun, and they taught me probably more than I taught them.

My program took us on some trips to other parts of Spain, including Segovia and Cadiz. Segovia had ancient Roman aqueducts towering over the rooftops that were a spectacular site. One of my favorite places I visited in Spain was Sevilla. The city is beautiful, and Plaza de España is truly one of a kind. In Salamanca, I saw the oldest universidad in Spain. My roommates and I went to Morocco and rode camels, then had lunch while witnessing the call to prayer throughout the hillside. In the Canary Islands, I tried some homemade goat cheese, and went paragliding over Las Palmas.

I would encourage any student who has interest in going abroad to take the opportunity. Besides spending a whole semester seeing the world, it looks great on a resume. I am a supply chain major, and I know employers have commented on how they like to see students with a global perspective. Studying abroad might be the most amazing five months I’ve ever had. Hopefully once I graduate I get the chance to go back and work in Spain.

International Perspective: Chris Goldy

“Traveling has become my middle name,” said Chris Goldy, the Finance Department’s graduate assistant. It started in 1997 when he joined Song and Dance Group Czestochowa. Spreading the Polish culture allowed him to visit many countries, including Hungary, Germany, Italy, Finland, Turkey, Austria, Lithuania, the Czech Republic, England, and the United States. In early 2009, he spent half a year studying management at the University of Primorska, in Slovenia; one year later, he was part of the summer academic exchange program for students in Moscow, Russia.

A native of Poland, the twenty-five-year-old earned his bachelor’s degree in finance and accounting as well as his MBA with a minor in finance at Wroclaw University of Economics, where half of his credits were taught in English. Currently, he is earning his second MBA at the Grove College of Business.

In 2010, he worked in the editor’s office of the largest financial and investment web portal for investors in Poland, similar to Bloomberg.com. After more than two years as an analyst of foreign markets, he had published approximately 1,500 market newswires and more than eighty economic articles, commenting on real-time financial events from around the world.

During his tenure at the Wroclaw University in Poland, Goldy co-founded the e-business/consulting student organization where he became the first CEO, responsible for strategic management and coordinating projects within this thirty-person group.

Not only has he traveled around the world, he also traveled throughout the United States. During winter break, he took a thirty-day road trip with three classmates from Ship to Chicago, Colorado, Utah, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Las Vegas, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, New Orleans, and Baltimore. During several weekend trips, he also visited Boston, Washington, Florida, New Jersey, and New York City with friends.

Goldy plans to graduate in December 2013 and work in the United States for the next few years.

If you are interested in creating an endowment through the Shippensburg University Foundation for the benefit of the John L. Grove College of Business, call SU Foundation at (717) 477-1377 or visit the website at www.sufoundation.org.
College of Business Welcomes New Faculty

Dr. William Bealing
Accounting

Dr. William Bealing received a BSBA from Shippensburg University, an MBA from the University of Montana, and a PhD in accounting from Penn State. Bealing researches accounting regulations, specifically SEC regulation of the profession, as well as the relationship between a student’s personality profile and their success in accounting. Previously, he taught at Bloomsburg and James Madison universities. Prior to teaching, he worked in the public accounting area. Bealing has earned his Certified Public Accountant and Certified Fraud Examiner designations. He enjoys shooting for sport recreationally and competitively. He also enjoys fly fishing and watching Brittany spaniels work in the field.

Dr. Sunhee Choi

Honors and Awards
Gerald Piper Dean’s Award College of Business, 2013.

Each fall, Alpha Kappa Psi holds a Blue and Gold banquet to honor professors in their respective departments, as elected by fraternity seniors. During this year’s banquet in November, seniors honored Dr. Myers, accounting; Dr. Pan, finance; Dr. R. Taylor, marketing; Dr. Marsh, management information systems; Dr. Watts, management; Dr. Setaputra, supply chain management; and Associate Dean Winter as an honorable mention. After the awards, alumnus Marcy Weyant, CE operations financial analyst at Volvo, discussed the different jobs she has held since graduating and the differences between working for a small company and a large company. In addition to honoring professors at the banquet, the fraternity’s current executive board transferred all responsibilities to the new executive board: President Brother Danielle Landis, Vice President of Performance Brother Eric Griscom, Vice President of Membership Brother Lindsay Biggans, Vice President of Alumni Relations Brother Jackie Hubbard, Treasurer Brother Lisa Robbins, Secretary Brother Amanda Snyder, and Master of Rituals Brother Nikki Heavrin. Pictured (clockwise from left) are Alpha Kappa Psi Brothers Evan Miller, Tyler Harris, Leezah Zhmirkin, Associate Dean Anthony Winter, Brandon Bowers, Greg Campbell, and Josh Mermelstein

Blue and Gold Banquet
In November 2012, more than one hundred students attended the annual Business Networking Social and Etiquette Dinner sponsored by Northwestern Mutual Financial.

Lee Fortenberry, Northwestern Agency director and adjunct professor, expressed how important proper etiquette is from a business standpoint during even a casual evening out. Lynne Breil, president of the Professional Edge Company, along with her husband, John took the group through the trials of a hard-to-eat dinner and explained proper etiquette throughout the meal. Participants gained new business etiquette skills. Special thanks to Karen Kelly, secretary of the marketing and management department, the student leaders of the Financial Management Association and American Marketing Association for organizing the event, and all student professionals who attended. A big thanks to Northwestern Mutual Financial Network for their continued sponsorship of such a worthy experience for our students.

Young Alum Award: James DeGaetano

James A. DeGaetano, of Mechanicsburg, spent his professional career in a variety of financial-related positions across many industries, taking him from China to Europe and North America for many business projects. A former audit manager and broker who is experienced running a $50 million company, he started JD Financial Services (dba First Command Financial Planning) almost six years ago and serves more than 400 clients with more than $115 million in assets.

He has won numerous awards for his work and was chosen for the Top Forty Under 40 award by the Central Pennsylvania Business Journal. He is a CPA, Certified Financial Planner, and earned his MBA in 2002.

He is a member of the Central Pennsylvania Financial Planning Association and Financial Services Institute and is active in his community, volunteering with the Rotary Club of Carlisle. His wife, Jen, graduated from Shippensburg in 2000.

Student Human Resource Management Trip

Grove College of Business students from Dr. Vicki Taylor’s human resource classes went on a field trip to the State Capitol in Harrisburg to visit with Pennsylvania State Rep. Glen Grell (far left, bottom row).
Housed within Shippensburg University’s John L. Grove College of Business is a Small Business Development Center (SBDC) that serves Adams, Cumberland, Franklin, and York counties. It is part of the Pennsylvania Network of Small Business Development Centers (PASBDC), which was founded in 1980.

The Pennsylvania SBDCs play a unique and vital role in the Commonwealth’s economic development initiatives by working with entrepreneurs in all stages of business:

- from pre-venture to start-up to growth to reinvention
- offering a comprehensive portfolio of business assistance services
- working with companies in all industry sectors
- providing access to the expertise and resources of Pennsylvania’s universities
- participating as a member of Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development’s Partnerships for Regional Economic Performance; and
- maintaining an accredited membership with the Association of Small Business Development Centers as part of a national network of more than 1,000 centers.

The service philosophy of the SBDC is “to help build the management capacity of entrepreneurs and small business owners through providing education, guidance, feedback, information, and technical assistance.” SBDC services are strategic in nature, with the goal of helping clients assure their long-term success.

In addition to our general management consulting, the PASBDC network also provides specialized programs to support our clients’ business development needs. The Shippensburg SBDC hosts a consultant for the Environmental Management Assistance Program, a specialized service focused on assisting businesses with environmental compliance and regulatory issues. Specialists from other centers are accessed as needed for client issues within our region.

The SBDC provides opportunities for campus and community members, including:

- Applied Student Learning—internships and student work opportunities that allow students to actively engage with business consultants and entrepreneurs where they help address real-world business challenges and pursue market opportunities. The SBDC also works directly with student entrepreneurs, assisting them in business planning and development activities.

- Classroom Contributions—SBDC staff provide presentations and technical assistance to students in courses focused on entrepreneurial or small business development topics.

- Community Outreach—the SBDC works out of outreach offices in the four counties it serves, maintaining collaborative relationships with economic development organizations, banks, chambers of commerce, legislators, and other stakeholders.

- Research Opportunities—the SBDC engages in significant market research projects on the behalf of clients, including university students and staff, utilizing current industry and demographic databases to assist entrepreneurs in making data based business decisions.

The university provides funding, technical support, and facilities for the SBDC with additional funding provided by our program partners: the US Small Business Administration and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The Shippensburg SBDC also received supplemental funding during the program year from the Small Business Jobs Act of 2010, the Economic Development Administration, and the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection.

PASSHE Business Plan Competition

Finalist Olusegun Adeboyega Edun ’13, an art major, explains his business proposal Eden Studios during the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education Student Business Plan Competition. Hosted at the Dixon University Center in Harrisburg, the competition drew more than two hundred submissions from students at PASSHE universities. Students developed business plans that could realistically be implemented. Edun’s proposal helped individuals and businesses plan and develop web applications.
