Pre-Forensics Team Receives Provost’s Award

Interdepartmental collaboration resulted in not only a stronger Pre-Forensics program for Shippensburg University students, but also receipt of the Provost’s Award for Extraordinary Service. Dr. Todd Bricker, Associate Professor of Criminal Justice, Dr. Lucinda Elliott, Associate Professor of Biology, Dr. Eugene Fiorini, Professor of Mathematics, and Dr. Laura Patterson, Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice were all recognized for the contributions they made to the program. Bricker, Elliott, and Fiorini were instrumental in crafting an agreement between County District Attorney’s Carlisle Forensic Laboratory. This agreement allows SU students the opportunity for hands-on training, thereby giving them an edge when they hit the job market. Patterson has provided crucial assistance by locating funding through external sources to support the Pre-Forensics program. Popular with Shippensburg students, the program has also produced a Forensics Camp for high school students. With support from the faculty members and the Cumberland County Forensics Lab, university students gained practical experience while assisting the high school students explore the world of forensics through staged investigations.

“CSI: Shippensburg? Why not?” quipped Interim Provost, Dr. Rick Ruth.

The Provost’s Award for Extraordinary Service was presented at the general faculty meeting in August 2007. Recipients of the award get a $500 travel grant which they may use during the academic year.

University of Wroclaw, Poland

Through the efforts of Mr. William Minsker, an alumns of Shippensburg University, we are in the process of exploring an “exchange relationship” with Wroclaw University of Economics in Wroclaw, Poland. Professor Boguslaw Fiedor (Rector) and Professor Jaroslaw Witkowski (Vice-Rector) visited Shippensburg this past summer and were impressed with our university. After their meeting with President Ruud, they expressed a sincere interest in developing an “exchange relationship” with us, and extended an invitation to President Ruud and several others to visit Wroclaw this summer. In the meantime, Dr. Tom Verney’s Global Business class is coordinating video-conferencing sessions between Shippensburg students and Wroclaw students. The first two topics are Corporate Social Responsibility (presented by Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE)) and The Operation of the U.S. and Polish Stock Markets (presented by the Investment Management Program (IMP) and Finance Club students). The Global Business class students, together with their Wroclaw counterparts, are also planning a “Selected Topics in International Business: Poland” course this summer that will include a 10-14 day trip to Poland which will most likely take place during the early part of summer. According to Dr. Steve Holovak, Dean of the John L. Grove College of Business, “Given the increasing trends in globalization, it is imperative that we, as an institution of learning, do everything within our power (and budget) to expose our students to the impact of culture on business. The best thing that we can for our students is to encourage and support their efforts to study abroad and acquire some fluency in a second language.”

Psychology Department Receives Advising Award

The Fifth Annual Academic Advising Award was given to the Psychology Department. Presented during the opening faculty meeting in August, this award recognized the department’s innovation and creativity in meeting the needs of its students. The department has devoted much time and effort to advising, as is evident in their many advising goals, which include faculty-student research opportunities, student involvement in departmental curriculum committees, advising workshops, and advisor self-assessment. The department also has advising committees and checklists; regular communication with, career assistance for, and social interaction with students; departmental honors programs; and internships – all of which contribute to the successful advising of their students.

Schoolcraft Named Associate Provost & Dean of Graduate Studies

Dr. Tracy A Schoolcraft has been named Associate Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies. Prior to this appointment, Dr. Schoolcraft served as the Interim Associate Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies and, as a Professor of Chemistry, had served as the chair of that department.

Dr. Schoolcraft earned her doctorate in physical chemistry from Pennsylvania State University. Her bachelor of science degree in chemistry was earned from George Washington University.

“I’m excited about the opportunity to continue serving the university,” said Schoolcraft. “Shippensburg is a wonderful university that I’m proud to call my home. In this position, I get to interact even more with the campus as we work together to continue and enhance Ship’s track record of excellence.”
New Cohort Programs

Three new off-campus cohort programs began this fall: Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration, Masters of Education degree in School Counseling, and a Bachelor of Social Work degree. Courses in these programs are taught at locations other than the Shippensburg University campus and are designed to meet the needs and schedules of working adults. Each course is offered once until the program is complete and classes are offered year-round. For more information on these or other off-campus degree programs, contact Carolyn Callaghan (cmcallaghan@ship.edu).

On The Road

Provost Office personnel will be traveling to Tempe, AZ this February in order to give presentations at the American Association of State Colleges and Universities 2008 Academic Affairs Winter Meeting. Dr. Rick Ruth, Interim Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, and Dr. Tracy Schoolcraft, Associate Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies, will present Eating the Assessment Elephant One Bite at a Time. Dr. Ruth will also join Dr. Suzanne Morin, Professor of Psychology, in presenting Fostering Connections Through the First Year: New Faculty Orientation. If you'll be attending the conference, plan to stop by and participate in the sessions.

SU’s SHRM Chapter Receives National Award

The Society of Human Resource Management (SHRM) has presented its Merit Award to Shippensburg University’s SHRM Student Chapter. A higher level of achievement than the Honorable Mention Merit Citation the group received last year, this national award recognizes student chapters for outstanding activities and programs. The Shippensburg University SHRM Student Chapter was formed in 2002 and currently has about thirty active members. Under the guidance of their faculty advisor, Dr. Vicki Taylor, Associate Professor of Management/Marketing, and in cooperation with their sponsoring professional chapter, Cumberland Valley SHRM, the students planned and participated in a wide variety of activities, including workshops, professional development programs, conferences, interactions with local businesses, fundraisers, mentorships, and social events. “These activities allow our students to learn more about Human Resource Management while building relationships with local professionals and other students – and, of course, have fun,” said Taylor. The Society of Human Resource Management, founded in 1948, is the largest association in the world devoted to human resource management. Recipients of their Merit Award receive a Merit Plaque for display and are recognized in SHRM publications, website, and at the SHRM National Conference.

SU Welcomes New Dean of Extended Studies

Shippensburg University is pleased to welcome Dr. Christina M Sax as its new Dean of Extended Studies. Before coming to Shippensburg, Dr. Sax held a number of administrative positions at University of Maryland University College, including Interim Associate Provost, Interim Senior Dean for the School of Undergraduate Studies, and Assistant Dean for Social, Behavioral, Natural, and Mathematical Sciences.

Dr. Sax earned her doctorate in human genetics from the Medical College of Virginia and her bachelor of science degree in microbiology from the University of Rochester.

“I was drawn to Ship by a number of its characteristics,” said Sax, “ - a state university committed to access to higher education, a traditional residentially-based university diversifying through non-traditional and distance education programs, size, geographic location, and, most especially the instant feeling of community.”
Update: Middle State Reaccreditation Efforts

Shippensburg University has successfully moved along the path to reaccreditation by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools. The Self-Study Design that was submitted by SU has been approved and the work groups have started tackling their tasks in earnest. Chairs and faculty representatives of the work groups met with the Steering Committee co-chairs periodically throughout the semester to clarify and answer questions as well as receive feedback from their colleagues. Each work group will be giving a final report of their findings to the full Steering Committee in December. It is expected that, over the semester break, the information presented will be crafted into a rough draft of the Self Study. When the Steering Committee reconvenes in the spring, the draft will serve as a starting point for further discussion about the tasks which need to be completed prior to Middle States Team Visit the next year.

And Now A Word From Our Sponsor….

Rick Ruth, Interim Provost & VP for Academic Affairs

Wisdom begins in wonder.
- Socrates

My time serving as your Interim Provost is rapidly coming to a close. It has been a great honor and privilege to do so. I remain committed to public higher education; to Shippensburg University; and to our students, faculty, and staff. I sincerely believe that we – all of us – make a real difference in each other’s lives, especially in the lives of our students. Thanks for all that you do; thanks for the opportunity to serve; and thanks for the difference you have made in my life!

Georgena and I wish you all the very best for a safe and happy holiday season.
