Responsible research

CITI Program comes to SU

A suite of online training modules is now available to SU faculty and students wanting to complete training in responsible conduct of research (RCR). The courses are part of the Collaborative Institutional Training Initiative (CITI) to which the university now subscribes. Some of the topics covered by the program include conflict of interest, data management, research misconduct, plagiarism, and research involving human subjects.

Faculty and students can access the program at https://www.citiprogram.org/ where they will need to create an account. There is no charge for taking part in the training. SU has subscribed to CITI in order to comply with federal grant requirements. Contact Chris Wonders at IPSSP for more information.

RESOURCES FOR WRITERS

Join the group!

Fall writing groups start in October

Finding time to engage in scholarly or creative writing is challenging, but meeting with a group of dedicated writers who provide feedback can help you improve your manuscripts and encourage you to persist in your scholarly pursuits.

SU’s faculty writing groups will reconvene on October 9 and November 6 from noon until 5:00 pm in the Learning Center. You can choose to join the Grant and Fellowship Writing Group, the Writing for Scholarship and Publication Group, or both groups.

If you are interested in participating, you must complete this survey by October 2 so organizers can adequately plan for the first meeting: https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/SWGFall2015. Organizers will contact faculty registrants with details about the first meeting by October 4.

STUDENT RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Call for proposals: student research grants

Undergrad and graduate grants available

The calls for proposals have been issued for the 2015/16 undergraduate and graduate research grant programs. The SU Foundation has once again made $60,000 to fund undergraduate grants. Meanwhile, the Dean of Graduate Studies and IPSSP have allocated $14,000 for graduate research — seven-thousand per semester for the fall and spring.

Undergraduate proposals are due October 9. Graduate proposals are accepted between September 8 and December 8 and again between January 19 and April 19, 2016.

Direct your students to details about both programs. You can access info from the links shown in the right-hand column of this page under Calls for Proposals.
