

Arts and Sciences: Ship's Largest College

Throughout Shippensburg's College of Arts and Sciences you can expect a learning atmosphere that brings out your best: small class size, in-class debate, hands-on experiences, up-to-date technology, and faculty/student research opportunities.

The College offers more than 75 majors and concentrations from 17 departments in four divisions: Fine Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, and Math and Natural Sciences. We have programs in a variety of disciplines, from Art to English, from Sociology to Computer Science, and from Physics to French. You can become a forensic scientist or a foreign correspondent with a degree from the College of Arts and Sciences!

Have interests in many areas? The College offers several interdisciplinary minors, such as Technical/Professional Communication or Women's Studies, and a major in Interdisciplinary Arts.

Experiential Learning

Nearly all programs in the College of Arts and Sciences offer internship opportunities to help students prepare for their careers and make contacts for future employment.

Many students get involved in student-faculty research projects, gaining valuable experience for graduate work or for careers, and they present their work at national and international meetings each year. Also study abroad provides many students with valuable learning and cultural exchange.
